Designed by Ralph du Carrois, Anja Meiners, Erik Spiekermann, and Botio Nikoltchev of Carrois Type Design, Fira Sans is a humanist sans serif typeface. Originally called Feura Sans, the typeface was designed for Firefox OS and released in 2013. It is descended from Spiekermann's Meta typeface from the 1980's, which is the brand typeface of the Mozilla Foundation. Fira Sans' initial release included four weight variants including light, regular, medium, and bold, as well as their respective italics. Later, in 2014, sixteen additional weights were added. In 2015, Mozilla added a condensed variant to the family. In Adobe Typekit, from which I downloaded this version of Fira Sans, there are four weights available, including Hair, Hair Italic, Heavy, and Heavy Italic. A monospaced variant of Fira Sans, called Fira Mono, is also available in regular, medium, bold, and their italics.
